Heywire encourages young people to tell stories about their life outside the major cities in text, photo, video or audio format. Turning points are moments where your life changes course. They are fascinating to the reader and often set up a suspenseful story. Here are some great turning points from recent Heywire winners. Many great Heywire stories are opinion pieces about important issues. But we encourage you to not only focus on your opinion, but your experience of the issue. Get stuck into it now!
